Comment = I would like to know what has been done about senior center managers Bethany Berube & Ashlee Winslow, best friends who should not be allowed to work together and are not fit for running a senior center. The City of Clovis should be ashamed of what they have allowed to happen to their community because of these two women who are still in their probation employment status.

Jim Ray was an innocent victim of two people who just wanted him out so they could replace him with a female instructor.

What happened to the senior center being a place for seniors?

The new line dance classes will be for all ages. Seniors join the senior center to be with their peers. Not a bunch of younger people.

The pickleball community won't even use the center for pickleball because the room is too small, the ceilings are too low, and the court is too small.

Please just admit it was a bad decision to convert our dance hall into a pickleball court.

Explain the reasons for not being able to hire Jim Ray. Other than because he's in retired status. That can be reversed. You may have to write some letters and jump through some hoops but it can be done. He is not retired from calpers.

Please give us some answers. You have no credibility right now and want to cover this all up by bringing in food trucks and alcohol.

That dance floor would not exist if not for Jim Ray. He was so happy to be back on it after fighting for 2 years. How can you not have one bit of empathy and not seem to care at all about the human factor of this whole disaster?

Comment =

I am opposed to hanging any religious slogan on the wall of the council meeting chamber.

If council members wish to earn public confidence, they should do so through their actions, not by posting a sign intended to cloak them in righteousness.

A sign proclaiming “In God We Trust” is a shield for politicians who want to project moral authority and exploit religion by making a display of virtue while avoiding accountability.

Diane Pearce makes the proposal on cue following in Garry Bredefeld’s wake at the County Board of Supervisors—as Drew Bessinger put it, “Monkey see, monkey do.” Yet neither Pearce nor anyone else offers a reason for installing such a sign. Even Bredefeld offered only defenses: “It’s not illegal.” “Others have done it.” “It’s the national motto.” These arguments make no case for an outcome constituents can expect as a result of displaying such a sign.

Folks like Diane and Garry seem to want us to know that if we object, we must be against God. It’s a way of drawing a moral boundary that stigmatizes opponents as outsiders, unbelievers, or degenerates.

The origins of “In God We Trust” underscore its problems. It was adopted in 1956 during the Cold War, pushed by religious lobbying groups who wanted a symbolic contrast to “godless” communism. It replaced the long-standing unofficial motto, “E Pluribus Unum” (“out of many, one”), which better reflects the nation’s democratic ideals.

Yes, courts have allowed the motto to stand, but its frequent challenges demonstrate how problematic, objectionable, and exclusionary it is.

These days, forcing the motto into a civic space is a cheap display of culture-war triumph, literally leaving a mark on the walls of government. The Council should reject any such proposal, because it’s simply not warranted for any reason.

Comment = I strongly support Proposition 50 and reject any effort by the Council to oppose it.

Prop 50 is not happening in a vacuum—it's a direct response to Donald Trump's brazen, illegal demand that Texas gerrymander its congressional maps to guarantee Republican victories.

Alarming, leaders in Texas and other GOP-led states are eager to comply with a convicted felon who shows no respect for the law or for democracy itself.

If Republicans believed they could win fairly, why would they resort to such schemes?

It can't be OK for Republicans and unacceptable for Democrats. Decent people will not tolerate a double standard—what's good for the goose is good for the gander.

Many Republicans may not even know what Trump has asked state leaders to do, as they shun credible news sources. A look at the facts shows why Prop 50 is both fair and critically essential.

Because of this blatant attempt to subvert democracy, those of us who still respect the law must act decisively and defensively: Prop 50 is the temporary but necessary safeguard we need in this moment of crisis.

For these reasons, I urge the Council to support Prop 50.

Comment = Some of us from the Clovis Senior Center/Community Center are very concerned about how the dance program has been treated. We are concerned about the pickleball courts, Jim Ray's classes, and the morale at the Center. We are coming again tonight to understand better why these matters have been treated as they have.

Comment = In regard to the wood flooring / dance floor in the Community Center building, the recent changes have not corrected the problem. I was there today to see and feel for myself. The new paint that was put in place of the heavily textured paint, IS STILL TEXTURED. As I have heard it explained to you in previous council meetings, Ballroom dancers glide across the floor. When there are inconsistencies on the floor, that will stop the gliding movement which can lead to injury. I would think that a pickleball player who is sliding on the floor would experience the same circumstances, the risk of an injury as well. It is really a shame that the City seems to be making an effort towards a resolution, but is truly uneducated in what is safe and not safe. I will be at the center tomorrow as will other dancers, if you care to take the time to see for yourself what the issue truly is.

Respectfully submitted,

After hearing the Employees and the Volunteers speak at the City Council Meeting on September 8th, it appears that our dance instructor, Jim Ray is not the problem! The City Council merely turns the problems over to Management in which to be resolved! Well they are the problem!

We need new management and that includes Amy Hance of HR, who hired these two individuals and obviously none of them are qualified to work with Seniors!

Amy never wanted dancing even at the Old Senior Center, before the new Center was built. In the lobby was a video advertisement for all the activities offered, but never showed Jim Ray's dance classes!

Before the new Center was built, Amy promised us that she would have a floor put in like the floor in the library at the Old Senior Center, which was a smooth, wood like vinyl, floating floor. But what we got, was a very thin, rough vinyl floor glued to cement.

When Amy did her open house presentation at the new Senior Center, she mentioned all the activities that would be offered, but she never mentioned Jim's dance classes!

Due to all the drop outs of our dancers, caused by injuries to their joints from dancing on cement, we had a meeting with Amy and asked if we could do a fundraiser to put a dance floor over the cemented floor.

She point blank said, No this floor is staying!

Clovis has lost respect and its reputation, due to all this display of abuse to our Seniors, the Volunteers, who are also seniors and the Employees!

We have brought Amy Hance before the City Council, prior to this when still back at the Old Senior Center.

There again a situation causing us to lose many of our Seniors!

If any of the news people would like to talk with me, I am available!

Dear Mr. Thompson,

Thank you for your invitation to attend your Town Hall Meeting, and thank you for your lifetime of public service to our Nation, and to our State. I will not be able to join you. However, I'm attaching a copy of my Letter to Editor, published in Gilroy Dispatch, Morgan Hill Times, and Hollister Freelance, which contains my analysis of the CAHSRA's new "business plan" in response to AB-377. As the late honorable Norman Y. Mineta said in 1996, at the Institute that now bears his name at SJSU, Norman Y. Mineta International Institute for Surface Transportation Policy Studies, "The crucial question in transportation today is: What should government do, and what should it leave to others?"

Norm was right then, and he's right now, God bless his soul.

I believe the government ought to follow its own National Transportation Policy, and rely on private sector transport solutions. When we give the wrong answer to Norm's "Crucial Question," we saddle this generation of taxpayers, and future generations of taxpayers, with intolerable tax burdens. As I said to the CAHSRC, and later when it became an "authority," CAHSRA, the sound, sustainable solution for high speed rail lies only in the private sector.

Thank you for all you've done for us over these many years.

Respectfully,

GILROY DISPATCH

Letter: Bullet train report is more lipstick on the pig

BY JOSEPH P. THOM - September 3, 2023

Letter to the editor

News reports that the California High Speed Rail Association's newest "business plan" proposes getting 18 million annual riders from Gilroy is, as predicted, more lipstick on a bankrupt-from-conception socialist boondoggle.

The population of Gilroy is 60,390, with 47,200 adults. Morgan Hill's population is 45,952. So, in round numbers we're looking at about 100,000 people of all ages. How many would take the Bullet Train every workday to Merced to Bakersfield? Would they pay full fare, or like VTA, COG, etc., pay only about 1% of the cost of their rides?

Taxpayers, motorists, pay the balance of their costly rides. It would make Lenin blush. If they all rode Bullet Train, that would be .0055% of CAHSRA's pie-in-the-sky projected ridership.

So, it's safe to conclude that CHSRA's new "business plan" is pure, unadulterated horse-pucky as we liked to say when I had my law office there.

Gilroy's taxpayers, including crucified motorists, labor under "worst-in-the-nation" award winning VTA, awarded them for extraordinary fraud, waste and abuse by the M.I.T. study of all the nation's transit agencies. In more than 45 years of representing small and very small business owners in Gilroy and South Santa Clara County, I saw business failures and bankruptcies at higher rates than the national average. Why's that? Confiscatory taxes/fees/fines/assessments and mandates?

In 2008, when the Gilroy and Morgan Hill chambers invited me to debate former Supervisor Rod Diridon in the pre-election debate on Prop. 1A, I said the same thing that I said to the "Godfather of the Bullet Train" in 1996, the Honorable Judge and Sen. Quentin Kopp. Private sector solutions are the only sound, sustainable transport solutions for local, state and federal governments.

I repeated my position in testimony before the Assembly Transportation Committee in the Capitol in 2010 in support of proposed legislation to defund the Bullet Train.

Nothing has changed over the years since to make me change my position. In fact, construction and operating costs have increased dramatically, and will increase more before it's completed. In a guest opinion published by the Gilroy Dispatch in 2008, I predicted that gas taxes would have to increase to $10 per gallon to fund the CAHSRA's monstrosity. Their fiscal bottomless pit is now so deep that I now double my previous estimate to $20 per gallon. But then, what will we do if we tax people out of their cars?

Instead of creating another socialist public sector transit boondoggle, I think that we ought to learn from our history, and switch to private sector rail, which is the only sustainable way to run a railroad.

CAHSRA has, predictably, answered AB 377 with a new "business plan" that's no different than their previous plan to crucify the taxpayers. Asking a blood sucking leech to have a new diet is an exercise in futility. We cannot afford the blood-sucking leeches that our leaders have already plastered on our backs. No wonder people are fleeing California in record numbers.
